Public Service Fellowship Program to Begin

The College of Law will be beginning a Public Service Fellowship program in the Fall of 1984. Made possible by a $70,000 grant from the Florida Bar Foundation, the program is designed to attract students who have public service career goals, to help them reach those goals, and to expose all students to the benefits of a public service career. Associate Dean Steven Goldstein, who was involved in organizing the program and who will help direct it, said that "the program recognizes the unique public responsibility of lawyers and seeks to encourage and reward those students who wish to make a commitment to public service." He added that "the program will draw on the unique opportunities available to Florida State University law students to observe and participate in activities of government, the Bar, and other lawyer public service."

Seven public service Fellows will be chosen each year from students beginning the study of law at the College. Three additional fellowships will be awarded to students who have completed their first year of law study. The fellowships will be renewable given satisfactory academic performance and full participation in program activities. The fellowships will range in amount from $6,000 to $8,000 during the Fellows' first year, $4,000 to $6,000 during the second year, and $3,000 to $5,000 during the third year. Fellows will be chosen by a committee consisting of three faculty members appointed by the Dean of the College of Law and two alumni appointed by the President of the College of Law Alumni Association.

Moot Court Victory, Alumni Breakfast Highlight Bar Convention

Alumni of the College of Law found an abundance of excitement and activities during the Annual Meeting of The Florida Bar Convention in June. The resort atmosphere of Innisbrook provided a summertime backdrop for meetings, competitions and social events.

The first Alumni Breakfast for College of Law graduates was held on Saturday morning, June 23, and was attended by approximately 75 alumni and guests. The speaker for the occasion was the new Dean of the College of Law, Talbot "Sandy" D'Alemberte who pointed out many of the achievements of the Florida State College of Law and expressed his excitement upon assuming the leadership of this young but growing law school. On behalf of the Alumni Association, President David W. Wilcox and Past President John W. Frost presented to outgoing Dean L. Orin Slagle a plaque in recognition of his accomplishments and leadership during his four years as Dean of the College of Law. In addition, the Board of Directors presented him with a gift. Special guests present at the breakfast included Robin Gibson, chairman of the Board of Regents, and the Chief Justice of the Florida Supreme Court, Joseph Boyd.

From the Board

The Alumni Association held its mid-year meeting on June 22, 1984 at the Bar Convention at Innisbrook and for the first time in the history of the Association, every board member from every part of the state was present.

The Annual Alumni Reception followed the board meeting and was once again well attended. Those alumni present were introduced to the two FSU Moot Court teams by Professor Pat Dore. One FSU team won the competition, and a member of the winning team was chosen best advocate.

The highlight of the Convention for FSU grads was the new Dean's presentation at the first FSU Alumni Bar Convention breakfast. Sandy D'Alemberte delighted those present with his "Socratic" question and answer session.

At the Board meeting, Board member Nick Friedman presented the new Articles and Bylaws for the Alumni Association. The Board of Directors gave its unanimous approval. For the first time, the Florida State University College of Law Alumni Association is a legitimate corporate entity.

Nick also gave a report on the progress of the establishment of local Alumni Chapters. He presented a sample charter package for distribution to interested Alumni.

The inaugural meeting of the Tampa local chapter is set for September 6, 1984 at the Tower Club in downtown Tampa. Those wishing information about the event may contact Don Gifford's office in Tampa (813/273-5000).

President-elect and 1984 Alumni Reunion Weekend Chairman Ken Connor announced that John Frost will head up the organization and arrangements for the Reunion Weekend Seminars. John tells me that two Bar approved Seminars will be offered on Friday, November 30, 1984. One will be a joint tax seminar with the faculty from the University of Florida and the other will be a litigation oriented presentation. The litigation seminar will be approved for credit from both The Florida Bar and The Federal District court of The Northern District of Florida.

Elora Harwood has reserved blocks of rooms in the Hilton, Duval, Holiday Inn and other area hotels for the November 30 through December 2 weekend. (See article on page 3.) Due to the large number of people that will be in town for the FSU-UF football game as well as the Reunion weekend, you are encouraged to tie down your room reservations well in advance. You will be receiving more information in the near future.

Professor Steve Goldstein reported on the Public Service Fellowship Program. Professor Goldstein pointed out that The Bar Foundation is funding the program with funds provided from the IOTA program. Alumni can painlessly support the Public Service Fellowship Program by becoming participants in the IOTA program.

The time is coming when College of Law Alumni are going to be called upon to offer their personal financial support for the College of Law. Steve MacNamara who heads up the College of Law Alumni Development Program is working hard to come up with a plan that will help provide adequate funding for scholarships and law school programs. So, get your checkbook ready. The law school will be asking for your help this fall.

Lastly, the Board extends its appreciation to Mary Applegate Lau for her assistance in setting up the Alumni Breakfast at this year's Bar Convention. It was a great way to welcome the new Dean.

Remember to clear your calendars for the Reunion Weekend on November 30 - December 1, 1984.

From the Dean

This column is a tribute to Orin Slagle who is leaving the deanship to return to teaching: a tribute to a person who has many fine qualities but whose most important trait, to me, is his generosity.

As I have said publicly, Orin is perhaps the most generous person in legal education. He leaves the deanship at precisely the time that the law school has all the resources for distinction. Through his leadership and Ed Schroeder's hard work, we now have a fine new library structure which gives us more space for other activities at the law school including a fine courtroom and a student lounge.

The legislature has continued with its quality improvement program, adding another $500,000 to the law school budget this past session. These monies will allow the law school to build its faculty, improve its legal writing program, diversify the curriculum and begin to develop skills training courses.

The Florida Bar Foundation has provided a grant of $70,000 to permit us to start the Public Service Fellowship Program about which you will read more in this issue.

The Law Alumni Association is organized and this excellent newsletter has been published regularly. For the first time in the history of the school we are now poised to engage in a significant development effort. Steve MacNamara, an FSU law graduate, has been appointed Assistant Dean and he will lead this effort.

Orin Slagle's competence and vision have placed with FSU Law School the most extraordinary opportunities. This school is now ready to enter its twentieth year anniversary years with prospects of greatness. To realize this potential, we must match the generosity of Orin Slagle and give time and money to the law school.

In the next few months, I will be traveling around the state and I look forward to talking about how each of us can help the law school. We will call on you for money, for your time in aiding our admissions program, for help in our skills training and advanced legal studies programs.

Let me close my first column by saying that I hope that each of you will be as generous to the law school as Orin Slagle has been.

Moot Court Team Captures Trophy at Bar Competition

A Florida State University College of Law Moot Court team captured the first place trophy in the Robert Orseck Memorial Moot Court Competition held during the Annual Meeting of The Florida Bar at Innisbrook, June 20-23, 1984. Carlos Diez-Arguelles and Paul Nelson of Florida State defeated Nova Law Center team in the final round. Paul Nelson also was named the outstanding advocate in the competition.

Two teams from each of Florida's five law schools participated in the competition. The second Florida State team of Craig Clendinen and Richard Carnell reached the semi-finals before being eliminated by the winning FSU team. The Florida State teams were accompanied by coach Professor Patricia A. Dore.

Alumni support has been a key factor in the success of Florida State's Moot Court program. Many alumni have contributed their expertise by serving enthusiastically on practice panels. Other alumni have made generous financial contributions. Some have done both. As they savor their latest triumph, the members of the college of Law Moot Court organization express their sincere appreciation to all alumni who have demonstrated their interest in the continued success of the Moot Court program.

If the Florida State-Florida football game is moved, the CLE Seminars will move to the day preceding the game and the Brunch will move to the morning of the game.

Third Annual Alumni Reunion Weekend Set for Fall 1984

Exciting plans are underway for the third annual Alumni Reunion Weekend scheduled for November 30 - December 1, 1984, the weekend of the Florida State vs. University of Florida football game. Arrangements include two CLE seminars, one dealing with Trial Practice and a second emphasizing Tax issues. Both will be held on Friday, November 30. The seminars will be followed by a reception for all alumni. The Alumni Brunch is set for Saturday morning, December 1. Because of the increase in last year's attendance and resulting overcrowding, special arrangements are being made so that there will be room for all. The highlight of the Brunch will be a speaker of national renown.

Although no block seating for the FSU-UF game is available, the College of Law has managed to reserve blocks of hotel rooms for those alumni attending the seminars and Reunion activities. Information regarding location, rates, and deadlines is set out below. You must identify yourself as an alum of the College of Law to obtain these rooms. Make your reservations directly with the hotel.

Detailed information and registration forms will be mailed to you soon. Mark the dates of November 30 - December 1 on your calendar now, and plan for a great Tallahassee weekend with old friends from law school days!

Placement Update

Fall Recruiting

By July 1984, 68 employers were scheduled to interview on campus during the Fall recruiting Season. Last year, a total of 71 interviewers visited the campus, and the number did not reach 68 until September. Therefore, a substantial increase is expected for this year. Included in those already scheduled are four Atlanta firms and two CPA firms (Arthur Andersen and Deloitte, Haskins & Sells).

Second and third year students have been invited to register with the Placement Office. A Placement Handbook will be distributed to them by the first of August. The Handbook includes information on placement services, resume writing, and interviewing techniques.

Interview dates are available in October and November. If your firm or office wishes to reserve a date for Fall interviews, call Elora Harwood or Debbie Warren at the Placement Office (904/644-4495) as soon as possible. Your support of the Placement Program is needed and appreciated.

Class of 1983-84

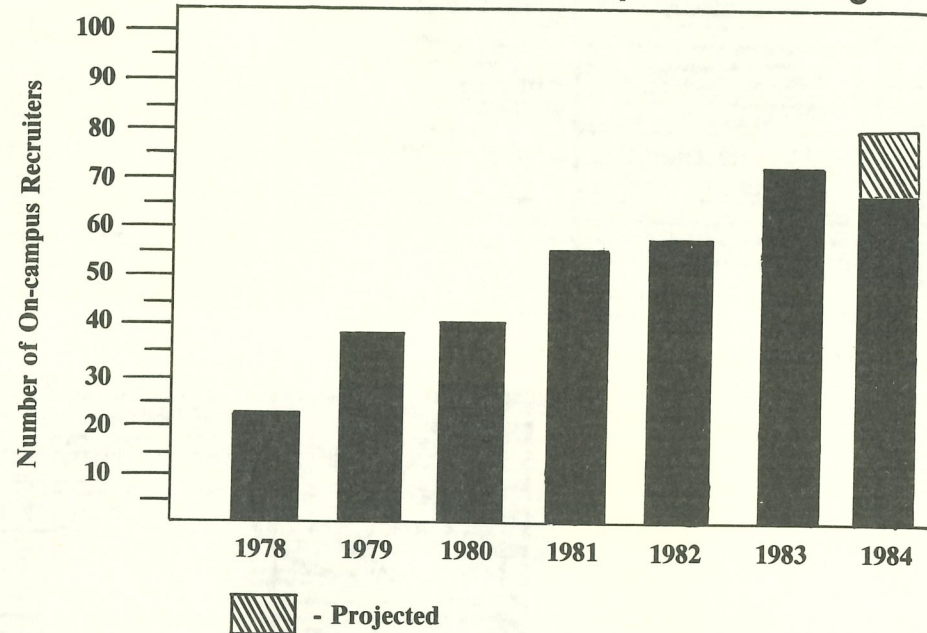

A total of 188 persons graduated in December 1983 and April 1984. Information received by June 1984 indicated that 105 of these graduates (56%) were employed. Only 26 indicated that they were not presently employed; the remaining 57 supplied no information. Many of these graduates are taking the Bar exam this summer. By the time the class is surveyed next January, the number of employed will have increased substantially.

Academic achievement and aptitude of the candidates will be important in the selection process. In addition, the selection committee will focus on the candidate's demonstrated commitment to, and capacity for, public service and potential for leadership.

The Fellows will have a number of responsibilities in connection with the program. All fellowship recipients will be required to spend at least 12 weeks of each summer after the first and second year of law school working in a public service position, for example, with a government agency, a public interest law office, a legal services or aid program, or a legislative committee. The summer obligations of Fellows selected at the end of their first year of Law

Florida State University College of Law Growth of On-Campus Recruiting

The graduation of this class brings the total number of College of Law alumni to 2,442. This number includes 490 women graduates. The majority of the Florida State law grads remain in the State of Florida although an increasing number are locating in the Atlanta and Washington, D.C. areas.

Placement Workshops

Last year, the Placement Office sponsored two successful workshops. In the Fall, an Interview Workshop was held prior to Fall Recruiting. Several alumni served on a panel and provided information on interviewing with law firms, state government and the judiciary. In the spring semester, alumni assisted with a workshop providing information on job search, employment opportunities, and interviewing techniques. The Placement Office plans to expand the number of workshops during the coming year to include information on career choices, opportunities within the practice of law, and corporate law practice. Alumni will be asked to assist with these workshops. If you are interested, please contact Elora Harwood in the Placement Office (904/644-4495).

School will be limited to the summer following their second year. The College of Law will assist the Fellows in obtaining positions. In addition, Fellows will be required to enroll in a course limited to Fellows during their third and fifth semesters in law school and be responsible for presenting a significant paper dealing with a selected legal issue that arose during their summer employment. The course will carry two hours academic credit and be taught by a faculty member designated by the Dean. Further, during their third year of law school, the Fellows will be required to prepare, under the supervision of a faculty member, a major paper on an aspect of public service.

The obligations of Public Service Fellows set out above are not exclusive.

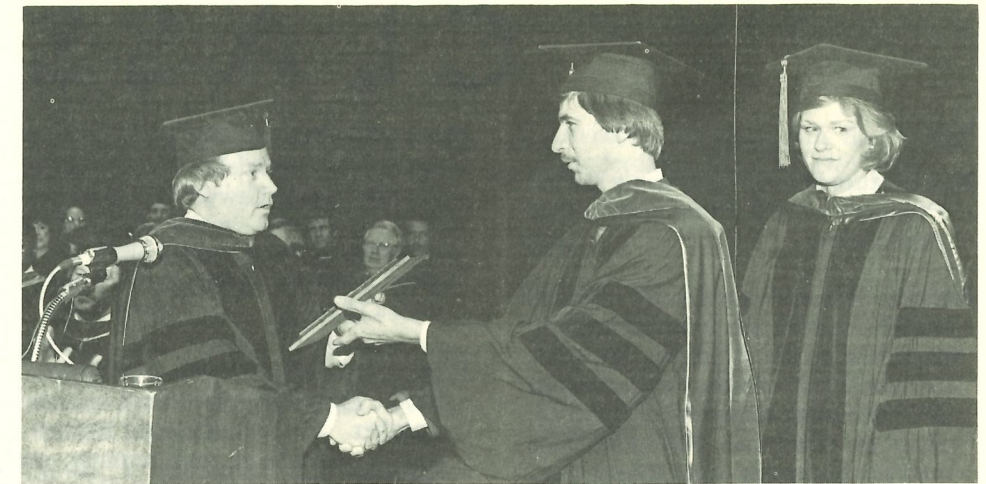

There are additional substantive responsibilities of the Fellows group which include organizing a speaker's program designed to interest students in public service careers, and presenting an annual symposium on some aspect of public interest law. The faculty coordinator of the program will assist the Fellows in these latter activities.

Dean D'Alemberte, in remarking on the program, praised the Florida Bar Foundation for providing funding. He emphasized that the program will be a tremendous learning experience for the students selected and should benefit the state community as a whole. He added that he suspects that the program may well serve as a model for other law schools.

Boire and McGihon Receive Student Service Award

The second annual College of Law Alumni Association Student Service Award was presented to two members of the Class of 1984, Martin C. Boire and Anne Lee McGihon, during the April Commencement Exercises. David W. Wilcox, President of the College of Law Alumni Association, presented engraved plaques to each of the recipients during the ceremony on April 28, 1984, in Ruby Diamond Auditorium. The Student Service Award was established by the Alumni Association to recognize a third year student who has made a significant contribution to the students of the College of Law and to the College, through service within the College or outside service which reflects positive credit upon the College of Law and the Florida State University.

Mr. Boire's contributions and service to the College of Law are many and varied. As a President of the Student Bar Association, he began a monthly SBA Newsletter and designed a College of Law window decal. One of Mr. Boire's major achievements was the design and production of a much needed College of Law Class Directory, complete with pictures of all students.

On behalf of the Alumni Association, President David Wilcox presents the Student Service Award to April graduates Martin Boire and Anne McGihon during Spring commencement exercises.

He served on the Admissions and Faculty Appointments Committees in 1982-83 and served in an advisory capacity to the Alumni Association Five Year Plan Committee. He also was instrumental in the formation of the Journal of Environmental Law, a publication of College of Law Students. He authored an article on terrorism which was published in the May 1984 issue of the Stanford Journal of International Law. Mr. Boire's achievements have brought credit to the College of Law. Together with his extensive service, these achievements formed the basis of his nomination for the Student Service Award.

Ms. McGihon was actively involved in service to the College from the time she entered law school. During her first year, she was a member of ATLA and the Women's Law Symposium. For two years, she assisted with the annual Law Week Race Judicata. As a President of the Student Bar Association, she guided the SBA through its transition to new quarters, developed an outstanding orientation program for entering students, and founded Checkmates, an organization to assist married students and their spouses with the pressures of law study. The organization is aimed at drawing spouses closer to the law school community through sponsored activities. Ms. McGihon also served as a student representative on the Dean Search Committee participating fully in the work of the Committee and serving as liaison to the student body. Most recently, she served on the Graduation Committee. Her contributions have greatly enriched the College of Law and qualified her to be a deserving recipient of the Alumni Association Student Service Award.

A reception will be held on Thursday, September 6, to kick-off the new chapter. All Tampa Bay area alums are invited to attend the reception which will be held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Tower Club in Tampa. on Friday afternoon and was marked by 100% attendance. Among the items discussed were plans for the Alumni Reunion Weekend on November 30-December 1.

The Alumni Reception on Friday evening was attended by more than 150 alumni and several faculty members. The Moot Court team was present to celebrate its victory. Dean D'Alemberte and his wife, Lyn, were in attendance along with their son, Joshua. After the reception, Dean Slagle hosted a dinner for the Moot Court team members at the Island Clubhouse.

Another winner was found among the several faculty members attending the Bar Convention. Professor Ken Vinson and his partner won the Florida Bar Doubles Tennis Tournament!

Special recognition goes to the Tampa area alumni who were the largest group in attendance. The support and interest of all alums is appreciated as the College of Law continues to be an all around winner!

From SBA

Every fall season presents us with lots of great opportunities for interaction between the alumni and current students at the College of Law, and we intend to take full advantage of every opportunity this year!

I believe that the interaction between alumni and students, in both social and professional settings, greatly enhances the law school experience. The Student Bar Association has made alumni affairs a priority this Fall, and we're inviting you to come and join us at our events whenever you can.

The first opportunities revolve around welcoming the new first year class and helping them adjust to the new lifestyle that the first year curriculum mandates. SBA is once again sponsoring the Fall Orientation program for the new class, and we invite you to help out in two ways:

1) Ms. Sandy Manson, last year's President, will contact Tallahassee area alumni about helping with our Alumni Mentor program this year.

2) SBA is sponsoring a VIP reception to welcome the new class in the evening following Orientation Day Activities on Thursday, August 23rd. We are inviting local judges, bar association officers, legislators and other notables to attend and meet the class and faculty, and we would like you to attend as our most important "notables"! The reception will begin at 6:00 P.M., and the location will be determined soon. If you are interested, contact the SBA office at 644-4844 or Elora Harwood in the Placement Office at 644-4495 for details.

Another opportunity to enjoy the Fall and interact with the law school faculty and students will be the activities surrounding home football games. We will once again organize a law school block for the home football games this season. We have adopted a policy of best seats in the block for alumni (right after the SBA President and his guests) that would like to join the fun for a game or two. We will provide notice soon for all ticket deadlines and times for mandatory pre-game festivities. We would love to have you join us when and if you make it to town.

We're looking forward to seeing all of you this Fall. If we can be of any assistance to you, please don't hesitate to contact us.

Dean D'Alemberte presents Eugene Tubbs Memorial Award to Willard Pope.

Tubbs Award Presented to Willard Pope

The 1984 recipient of the Eugene Tubbs Memorial award is Willard Pope, a second-year law student. On Monday, July 2, a certificate and a check for $400.00 were presented to Mr. Pope by Dean Talbot "Sandy" D'Alemberte on behalf of the College of Law and Mrs. Margaret Tubbs, the mother of Eugene.

Before he and his wife were killed in a plane crash in July 1978, Eugene Tubbs had amassed a remarkable list of achievements, including finishing both medical school (at the University of Florida) and law school (at Florida State). When he died at 42, Tubbs had served two terms as a Republican representative from Merritt Island. He ran for his legislative seat after he left NASA's Project Gemini, where he served as flight surgeon for astronauts including Neil Armstrong and Ed White.

Citizenship, character, and scholarship form the basis for determining the recipient of the Tubbs Award. Mr. Pope fulfills these requirements in all respects. During his ten years of full-time employment with the Marion County Sheriff's Department in Ocala, Florida, he obtained both a B.A. degree in Criminal Justice and Public Administration from the University of Central Florida and an MS in Criminal Justice from Rollins College. While serving as a sheriff's deputy, Mr. Pope performed the duties of an investigator, underwater recovery team member, SWAT team commander, administrative sergeant, and community relations unit commander.

As an active member of the SWAT team, Mr. Pope was involved in a high risk situation which resulted in his being shot at close range. He lost the sight in his left eye completely and was legally blind for a period of two years before recovering vision in his right eye. During this time, he continued to work as an administrative sergeant. He also was instrumental in developing a call-in system for senior citizens and in organizing Florida's first Retired Law Enforcement Officers Association.

Pope received the Marion County Sheriff Department's Medal of Distinction and the Jaycees Officer of the Year Award for 1981 as well as numerous other community service awards. He is a member of the Florida Law Enforcement Officers Hall of Fame.
